

WHY IS THE AVAILABILITY OF DISPUTE RESOLUTION DATA IMPORTANT?

“In the management of corporate legal operations, if the choice is between habit and anecdote versus real data, then data wins hands down.”

“Legal departments need data to set an overall strategy for dispute resolution, and to manage particular cases.”

- Corporate general counsel, and former President of ACCA

THE VALUE OF DATA

Dispute Resolution Data provides cost, time and other valuable process information for users to formulate strategies that transform levels of service.

VISION

We envision a world that understands the true value of arbitration and mediation through the availability and application of data.
